Zach Scurlock

Lab 6 Summary

While working on this lab, I learned how to implement three memory page-replacement algorithms. I didn't have any difficulties implementing the First-In-First-Out algorithm and the Least Recently Used algorithm as they are pretty similar in implementation and easy to understand. I did however find the Optimal algorithm a bit more difficult to understand but after giving it some thought I was able to successfully implement the algorithm with little issue.